Those individuals who would like to kick up some dance floor dust may be interested in the dance classes taught by Vivian Otto and offered through the department in the Recreation Center. As of July 1, Otto will instruct preschoolers from 6:30-7:15 p.m. in the art of ballet and tap dance routines. For all other ages, male and female, ballet is taught from 4:15-5 p.m., tap dancing, from 5-5:45 p.m., jazz dancing from 5:45-6:30 p.m. and aerobics from 7:15-8:15 p.m. Each class cost $12.

"We try to keep everyone busy," she added.

Super sport: Resident learns from recreation

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

When the Romulus Youth Baseball Association was formed, Cyril Bird was there. And last month when the Romulus Recreation Department announced the Distinguished Person of the Year, he was the guest of honor.

Shocked and surprised, Bird accepted the 1987 award during the Romulus Michigan Week Festival when each year a resident is selected for outstanding lifetime achievement with local youth and sports.

Bird, 50, began his career back in 1967 when his four sons were young. He started as an assistant coach in the Pee Wee division. "He was always seen with a carload of kids, often at the local ice cream store where he treated them," said one resident.

The Romulus Little League was formed with the assistance of Bird. He coached the Major League for four seasons, from 1970 to 1974 and the Senior League from 1976 to 1978. In 1979, he coached the Big League.

And for several seasons, he coached hockey with the Taylor Hockey Association.

"I just like the competition of sports," said Bird who, dressed in a plaid shirt and jeans, was hardly prepared to accept the award during the Romulus Festival, noted Recreation Director Debbie Dick.

"It was really unexpected. They kept it a secret and I was surprised. I started when the boys were little. I figured I might as well pitch in and help. I ended up with a team," said Bird.

"I learned as much as the kids. I made a lot of friends and enemies of some parents. Everybody's Johnny is a star. But people are people," he joked.

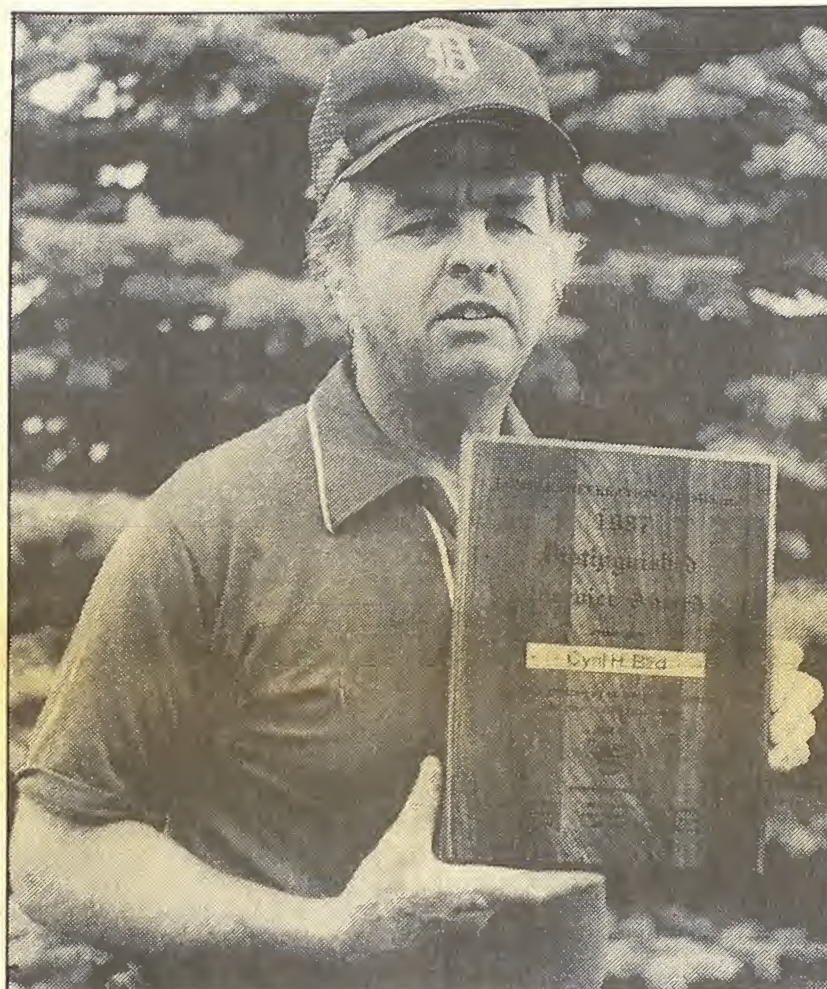

During those years, Bird and his young team practiced every day for two hours. "If you're going to play ball, you've got to get into it. Practice makes perfect," Bird stated. As a result, his teams found their way into first place "quite a bit," and made two or three all-star teams.

His athletic career began on Sumpter Road in Belleville where he grew up. He graduated from Belleville High School. He and his wife, Virginia, have been married for 27 years. For 23 years, he's worked at the Ford Stamping Plant as a millwright.

"I've been pretty well sports minded all my life. In high school, I ran cross-country and played basketball. And I played in the band. Because my dad was a music instructor, music was number one over athletics. Today, I play golf and watch pro football and hockey on television," he noted.

Bird's hobbies include farming. Each spring season, he works eight acres of strawberries and raspberries across from the family's Hannan Road home.

"All kids have talent. I always liked working with the young kids. When they get older, you get bigger problems like girls, cars and rock and roll."

Local artists sought

Artisans and craft workers are being sought to display and sell their handmade items at the Sumpter Country Fest on July 1, Aug. 1 and 2.

Interested individuals may contact booth chairpersons Kathryn Robinson at 697-0161 or Kathy Wirts at 697-4196 to reserve space at the festival.

Parade chairperson Mary Herring is seeking parade participants for the event which is scheduled to be line-up at 11 a.m. Aug. 1 at Sumpter and Willis roads. Entries of horse groups, antique vehicles, marching units and floats may contact her at 697-4835.

The three-day event will be highlighted by the Flying W Championship Rodeo, U.S.A. Demolition Derby, live bands, softball and horse shoe pitching tournaments and a Lions Club "Blind Man's" baseball game.

THE ROMULUS HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATING CLASS OF 1987

1987 Romulus graduates, better than ever

Tears of joy and sadness filled the eyes of many students and teachers at the graduation of the class of 1987 from Romulus High School at Chisler Arena in Ann Arbor this past Saturday.

Two hundred and seventy-six seniors slowly walked up to the podium to receive their diploma from the principal E.L. Sheffield. He too, was misty eyed as this is his last year as principal of the high school after five very dynamic years. He has served as director of Vocational Education and before taught auto mechanics. He was there 21 years. Emotions ran high for both students and teachers during the commencement exercises.

Sheffield welcomed the crowd of proud parents and friends and introduced the new graduates. After his short speech, the two top students from the class each recited a message.

"I know more today that I did yesterday; but not as much as tomorrow."

— Senior class motto for 1987

The class valedictorian was Khanh Nguyen who according to School Superintendent William Bedell, only came to America four short years ago. The class salutatorian was Denise Domas educated entirely through the Romulus School System.

Assistant principals Michael Teasdale and Jesse Meriweather recognized the following honor students:

Kevin Allen, Lisa Aloisio, Steven Anderson, Deborah Barr, Cortland Berdish, Anna Boatwright, Alicia Boler, Alexander Bossidis, Jr., Robin Brooks, Rebecca Crain, Tammy Darda, Denise Domas, Robert Dunn, Timothy Eastering, Angela Fronczak, Angela Gaffka, Rachelle Gibbs, John Gondek, Dawn Good, Thomas Greenan, Jr., Tina Grove, Michael Hawkins, Nancy Herdon, Marva Hopewell, Nichole Huby, Carole King, Tracey Kushner, Michael Ladach, Angelique LeBlanc, Kristi Lyles, Paul Martino, Tracie McGraw, Christine Metevia, John Morris, Ronald Murawski, Ivan Nausley, Khanh Nguyen, Kelly Noel, William Ritthaler, Mary Silvey, Jill Southard, Christine Strohschein, Michelle Williams, Charles Young, Richard Zeestraten, Stephanie Zuke and Lorraine Zurawski.

Class officers for the class of 1987 were president, Ronald Morris, vice-president, Mary Silvey, secretary, Kathy Hood, treasurer, Kelly Stewart and parliamentarian, Charles Young.

Music was provided by the award winning Romulus High School Band under the direction of Henry James. The program was arranged by Mae Jackson. Evelyn Hopewell gave the benediction.

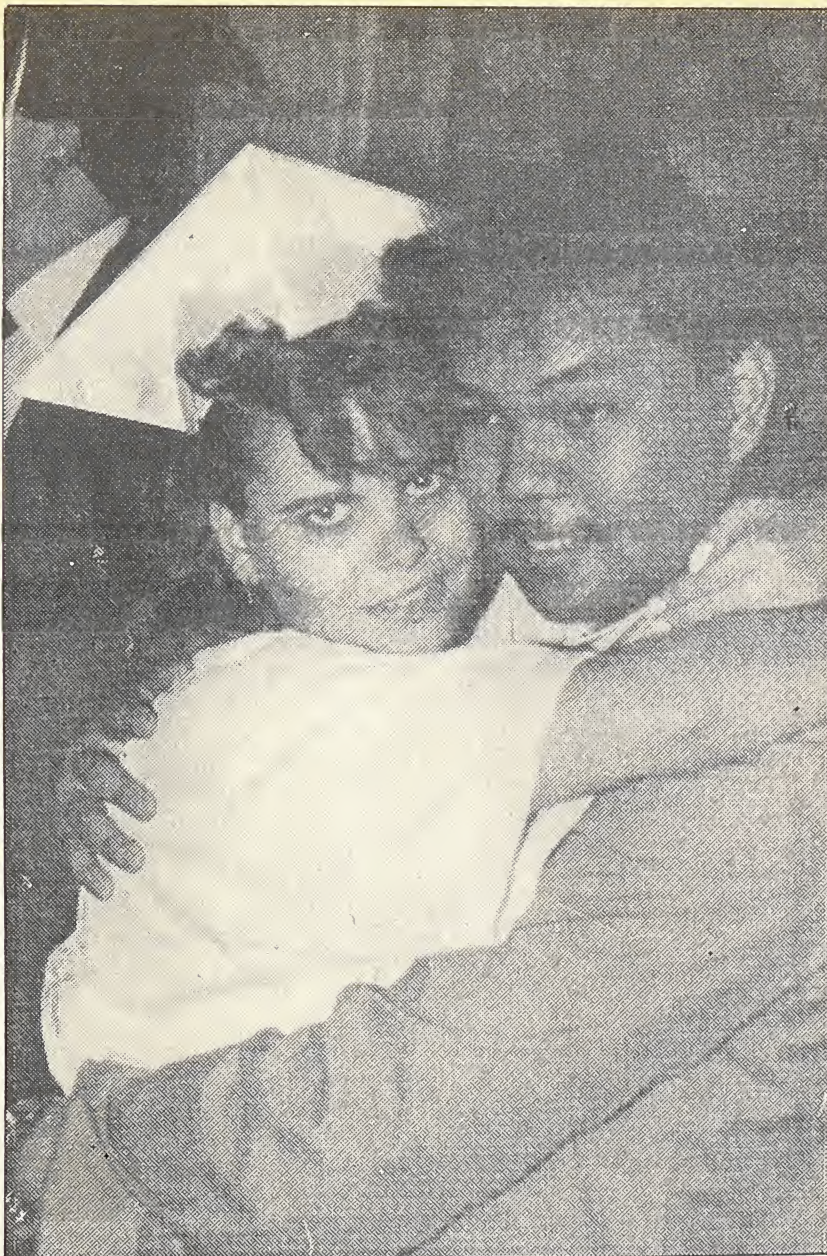

The class motto was very fitting. "I know more today that I did yesterday; but not as much as tomorrow."

"The ceremony was absolutely flawless. The speeches were inspirational. It was just great," Bedell said.

Ginger Bruder

Bruder proves a real 'Friend'

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

What appeared to be a tornado was recently spotted at the corner of Willis and McKean roads west of Belleville. Upon investigation, local residents realized it was only their neighbor, Ginger Bruder, working to finish the task at hand.

And it doesn't matter what the job is, Bruder, 40, pursues even the smallest tasks in life with startling vigor. For 10 years now, she's worked full-time as a sales representative for McGraw Hill Publishers. Her territory, one of the largest in the company, includes all of the Michigan lower peninsula and Ohio. Previously, she taught marketing and traditional business courses for seven years. Bruder is always on the go.

She earned her bachelors and masters degrees in business education at Bowling Green, in Ohio, her home state. Her hobbies include reading, antiques and cooking. Often, the aroma of fresh bread lingers throughout the Bruder home.

Bruder and her husband Keith, were married eight years ago, and last year, they moved onto his grandfather's former farm. Ironically, she was raised near her grandfather's farm near Toledo, Ohio. Presently, the Bruders are renovating that house as they both enjoy the art of restoration and share an appreciation for antiques.

focus on people

They have no children but have substituted an intense devotion to their community. "Life has been good to us, and we want to give something back," Bruder said.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: What community projects do you find the most rewarding?

BRUDER: I was an original member of the Friends of the Belleville Library. Now, I'm president. I belong to the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Organization. Keith and I have done a lot for the Belleville United Presbyterian Church over the years.

ANP: Why are the Friends such a dynamic force in the cultural community of Belleville?

BRUDER: At the very least, we've brought the library into the local spotlight. Since we started, at least three well-known authors have visited the city. In the last year, such authors as Rob Cantner of Westland, who uses the setting of Belleville in his books, William Kienzle, author of the soon to be movie, the Rosary Murders, Gary Barfknecht, author of several books on Michigan trivia and Jean Pitrone, author of the first book about the Dodge family have all visited and spoken before a small crowd in Belleville, thanks to the Friends. Next, we're working on Elmore Leonard, author of "Glitz." We live in a very interesting world, and we want to bring a little of that to Belleville. But interest in the appearances of these celebrities draws people from all over the Detroit metro area. People are genuinely impressed. More than 90 people attended our first author luncheon.

The Friends also do book sales and the "Sleepy Time Story Time." The group has done a lot to stabilize the activities of the library. We have a good working board. ANP: And you're active with your family as well, right?

BRUDER: We have 14 nephews and nieces. One of them seem to always be over our house. They like Aunt Ginger because they can do what they want. I always give them cooking demonstrations and lessons in manners. Everything I bake or cook is home-made. I can't open a box. Noodles, bread, you name it, it's made from scratch. In the fall, I can and freeze vegetables. I get embarrassed when I go to supermarket. My basket always looks different than other peoples.

A new and welcome course

At long last the city of Belleville seems to have gained the one thing it has been missing – energetic and innovative leadership.

Visitors to the charming city on the lake cannot help but notice the obvious advantages that the community has to offer. First, of course, is its beautiful location plus all of the accompanying recreational opportunities. Belleville is close to two airports, a short distance from two major freeways and close to a chain of metro-parks. Although limited by its size, the city is, nonetheless, a prime site for industrial, commercial and residential expansion.

We have wondered why, for example, there isn't a waterfront restaurant, a dynamic Main Street shopping area and tenants in the industrial park. We have wondered, also, why downtown streets have deteriorated, why numerous shops closed last year and why the obvious advantages of the area have not been used to their maximum potential.

It appears now that the city of Belleville is on new course. Energetic, innovative and forward-thinking leadership has emerged to begin moving the city ahead. For example, the proposed Streetscape will make the downtown area a new course. Energetic, innovative and forwardlightful place to stroll and shop and the once-empty Main Street stores are either occupied or being renovated. There is optimistic talk about development in the industrial park, and a newly-adopted sign ordinance will aid in the beautification of the downtown area.

New banners will herald the start of the Strawberry Festival next month and several new businesses will be ready to open their doors when the visitors arrive.

All of these things and more could not occur without dedicated and hard-working community leaders and enthusiastic entrepreneurs. We particularly want to note the contribution of Pat Birbeck and Leona Van Buhler of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce, Gary Sampson and Ken Voigt of the Downtown Development Authority and Mayor Beverly Stinehour and Mayor Pro Tem Glenn Silvenis. In addition to these outstanding individuals, we want to recognize the members of the Chamber of Commerce, DDA and Belleville City Council and numerous city employees for their efforts to revitalize Belleville.

Belleville is on the move. Let's keep up the momentum.

Buddies

Well, "Friends," it was 30 years ago (gasp) when this columnist began in this fun-filled business by writing a sports column on the dunks and swishes at Westside Jr. High in Wayne.

In all those years, including my seven years at the Detroit Free Press, and nearly 11 years back at Associated, I have never, ever thought of anything as brilliant as you and I are now witnessing.

I refer, of course, to the offering of Knight-Ridder and company weakly now in The Detroit Free Press...that's w-e-a-k-l-y. For your reading enjoyment, and it would appear by your hand, they are going to publish "community news" such as weddings, births, deaths, and all manner of localized people news.

Now I know you, dear readers, have not yet tumbled to the significance of this development. After all, you might say, your newspaper publishes that sort of information. "Besides," you are undoubtedly thinking, "I like to read about other people, and the sort of grassroots America news that this new weekly product marketed piggyback with the morning friendly allegedly will serve up to us."

Well I, too, think it's a fine idea. And if the Free Press is successful, I have a new product that Associated Newspapers will be ready to take off the drawing board, and you'll like that even more than "Friends." I intend to call my section "Buddies."

Now don't you dare snicker. This is a perfectly good idea, and one I have worked just as hard at planning as the Miami-based corporate giant. Well perhaps I have only spent 50 per cent as long...but I'm still working on it.

Okay, so the one time that I thought about "Buddies" was a day when I would otherwise have cleaned out my sock drawer, but didn't feel like taking on that big a challenge.

You no doubt have been following the news of the pending legalized monopoly between the two super-powers of our business, Gannett and Knight-Ridder. This proposed Joint Operating Agreement is known as the JOA.

The Free Press says it is "failing" and if not granted the legal right to rape and pillage they...well they haven't said they would go out of business, in fact they haven't said they would sell the paper...in fact I'm not sure what they said they will do beside make outrageous profits immediately following the firing of a number of employees.

They will not be needing many of these fine folks, since Gannett, which has the upper hand, seems intent on having their folks take the jobs of the displaced Free Press workers.

If you haven't followed all of that, it's okay, no one else understands it either...including the folks who will be losing their jobs.

Recently, documents the Free Press was forced to reveal in order to continue the pursuit of "Journalism JOA Mania" told us that the Free Press hopes to have you people send in community news which will be published to fill the pages of "Friends" and, therefore, the Free Press can save the cost of several editorial positions, shifting remaining staff to other responsibilities...like ferreting out real news, such as the reasons 13-year-old kids are killing each other on the streets of Detroit in record numbers.

In case I haven't made this clear, "Friends" is designed to: A) save money by eliminating jobs and/or B) make it look like they are doing everything they can to save money in order to cozy up to the Justice Department appointed judge who they want to be their "Buddy".

So I figure rather than working so hard (See SOLO, page 8-A)

Annual run has impressive finish

To The Editor:

I am writing on behalf of the downriver Runners Club to thank the Romulus Festival Committee for approving our club as race coordinators of the 10K Community Pride race. The work that Bill Smith did to fine tune the race in previous years was evident, and I salute his abilities. We are greatly assisted, in pulling the race together on a tight time schedule by the large numbers of Romulus, or via Romulus, volunteers who served at registration, refreshments, traffic control, radio and emergency network and the police and D.P.W. Each volunteer was responsible for making the race safe and successful.

One individual who donated a maximum number of hours on and after race day is Wayne Yeager, who manned the computer loaned by the Romulus Community Schools.

Surely the people of Romulus enjoyed a fine weekend full of activities. Plans for those activities were already forming at the first festival committee meetings I attended in March, and from then on, the hours of details put in by Gayle Mach, Bill Crane, Dennis Davidson and others like them are immeasurable. They are to be commended for maintaining such a monumental annual project, achieving a success and providing the opportunity for Romulus to perpetuate its community pride.

City Hall to see the new Vietnam Memorial. Did you ever see a grown man cry? Those veterans had tears in their eyes, but there was rage in their hearts.

Westland's Memorial is a political fiasco, on the front lawn of city hall. It was unfinished and ugly. Expecting to see the names of their fallen comrades from Westland, what they saw were the names of four city council members in brass, there for God, other veterans and their families and posterity to see.

Just another case of the same old city hall gang, fattening the fat cats.

Memorial parade not truly pictured

To The Editor:

Your piece on the Memorial Day parade (Wayne Eagle; May 27), I must say stunk. It was a, "it was here, it happened, big deal! Lets go onto something else"

I waited two hours, and it was worth it. But I didn't care for the Wayne Memorial Tribute. "Let's rock n' roll, boogie down, and let's get outta here" attitude.

The most moving tribute: The re-creation of the Iwo Jima, and the Vietnam Wall Memorial float. The best band, Franklin Jr. High (by the way, was not mentioned receiving the first place trophy).

A few tears came to my eyes, a few chuckles came out of my mouth.

It's something that the slain soldiers cannot do any more.

Resident wants action on pool

To The Editor:

I would like to know what the city of Wayne intends to do with the decaying swimming pool? It is evident that they do not intend to invest in a new swimming pool. A "Save The Pool Committee" pursued this a number of years ago. A survey ordered and paid for by the city council, showed the citizens were in favor of a pool and were willing to pay taxes for it. The council chose to ignore the survey, saying the results were inconclusive.

The pool is in a rapid state of deterioration. The cement is crumbling, the plumbing has rotted, the motors are unrepairable. It is clear that the pool and equipment are unsalvageable. The wading pool and the swimming pool collect water, providing a breeding place for insects. This is a health hazard.

If this were the property of a private citizen, the building department, the safety department and the county Health Department would be issuing citations and ordering the pool torn down and the land filled in.

This valuable land could be put to good use, instead of lying vacant. The residents of Howe Road, as well as others, would appreciate expanded parking facilities. More tennis courts or another ball diamond would be a nice addition.

County approves 911 district

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

An area-wide 911 emergency phone system is a few steps closer to becoming a reality, following authorization last Thursday from the county Board of Commissioners for implementation of the plan.

The commissioners, meeting at their regular board session, cast a unanimous vote in favor of the plan, spurred by the Conference of Western Wayne, a quasi-government advising group designed to aid communities in western Wayne County as a whole. County approval and establishment of an emergency telephone district was necessary before progress could be made on plan implementation, according to CWW 911 coordinator Joe Benyo.

The system, dubbed the "Enhanced 911" phone plan, is a takeoff of the 911 system presently in effect in Detroit, Plymouth, Livonia and Wayne, Benyo said. However, the new "enhanced" system will feature a few high-tech advantages which the current systems lack.

On the average, phone users in each community will pay an extra 16 cents per month for the service . .

With this new system, when a caller dials "911" on his home phone, the address and location of the home will light up and be identified on a computerized map located in the police department of each participating city. In addition, pertinent medical information will be displayed to assist paramedics and public safety personnel who will be dispatched to the scene, Benyo said.

Cities slated to participate in the new 911 program include Westland, Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Redford Township, Garden City, Wayne, Canton Township and Belleville.

Benyo said that by this area being designated as an emergency telephone service district, local governments are allowed to pass the cost of the system on to the telephone customers. He estimated that the new system will cost about $35,000 to install in each participating community.

In addition, the Enhanced 911 plan will cost the communities an extra $6,000 annually for maintenance.

On the average, phone users in each community will pay an extra 16 cents per month for the service during the first five years and 12 cents each month thereafter. The system should be fully operational by 1990.

Speed limit is set

Motorists in both Wayne and Westland are advised to ease up on the gas peddle when traveling through those two towns this week.

City officials report that the speed limit on Glenwood Road, from Hannan Road to Newburgh, has been reduced from 45 to 35 mph. The reduction in the speed limit, which has been approved by the city councils of both cities, came after the two police departments studied accident rates and speed reports taken during the past year.

New speed limit signs have been placed along the roadway to help remind motorists of the new limit.

scouting up community news of substance, we can borrow an idea from Knight-Ridder. I'm sure they won't mind...after all they're our "Friends".

Now in "Buddies" what I will do is combine the present daily newspaper technique of putting in a wire service in which I can provide to our readers national and international news for our community newspaper readers. (Does the name Panax ring a bell with any of you good people?)

Then I will move with lightning speed beating "Friends" to the punch, for they are obviously heading in that direction. I will ask folks to send in such items as, oh let's say, their baby pictures, a copy of their wedding certificate, oh wait, I'm getting into this now, how about their pet's vaccination papers? Yeah, that's it! We'll publish them all.

News releases would be good, we already get a truckload of those a day from "public relations" writers. You see, big companies like to hire public relations people to write boring news releases that never get published, only read by newscasters.

They do this so as not to spend money on advertising which would support a news staff that would write interesting news stories that would be published...but I digress...but then I always do, don't I?

Okay, now I figure if Gannett, which publishes USA Today, can put newspaper boxes modeled to look like a television on the street in order to attract the yippie crowd as prospective readers, so can I.

"Buddies" newsboxes, I figure, should look real friendly, so no one would suspect they're getting ripped off. Buddies newsboxes will be in the shape of a waving hand.

Gee, maybe I could have the boxes mounted on springs, and when our drivers stop to fill the boxes with new "Buddies" they could snap those suckers and start them-a-waving so as to attract the attention of one and all.

Yep, I can see it now, cars are driving down the street, and they see those boxes awavin', and drivers will slam on the brakes, and pull right over and buy a Buddy.

Friends, if you don't mind me calling you that, I have found the motherload. All these years I've been doing it wrong. I've been trying to make my fortune by giving people more and more for their money. And what they really wanted was to simply be made to think they were getting more. Stupid me. Dumb, dumb, me.

You can be sure that I will be watching the progress of the poor, poverty-stricken Knight-Ridder corporation in their quest for riches through poverty. Stay tuned, buddies. See you next week.

Career counselor sees jobs available for skilled youths

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Job security is not always the outcome of vocational training and education, but certainly skill security is, according to Marlene Bruner, job placement coordinator with the William D. Ford Vocational Center in Westland.

This is the time of year high school graduates busily pound the pavement and knock on the doors of local businesses searching for employment.

And chances are pretty good that with any vocational training, they could find a job, Bruner said.

"Frankly, we have more job openings than we have students to fill them. I'll be on the phone all week placing 1987 graduates with available jobs. And the job market looks real good," she said.

The Vo-Tech Center provides training in 22 different areas, such as auto mechanics, electronics, health occupations, secretarial, marketing and sales. Each class is near capacity with a maximum class size of 22 students.

Students generally earn wages ranging from $4.50 to $8 an hour with $5 being the average. Many companies offer full or partial benefits, she said.

"As a matter of fact, just last week I placed one young man from the building and trades area as a bricklayer apprentice. He will earn $9.50 an hour. The highest paying job we ever placed was $11 for a phototypesetter. This is one high demand area. Top placement is always given to our students in this field," Bruner explained.

High school graduates are their "key group" in employment placement. "Reality sets in after graduation. Some vocational students will even expand on the vocational education in college," she added.

"We conduct employment seminar skills. How to look for a job. We talk about interviews, resumes and applications. You can have the greatest skills in the world, but if you can't conduct an interview, it doesn't do any good," she stated.

Jobs received through Vo-Tech may not always provide job security, but they definitely provide skill security, Bruner said. "And that's a benefit. The skills are as important or more than the job itself. It equips students with entry level skills," Bruner said.

"Obviously, I'm a big promoter of Vocational training. It is for everyone and doesn't stop with high school students. Vo-Tech is for people who want to improve and update their skills. And that's important," she said.

already, for the most part, come to grips with the problem. "Hopefully, they've decided not to use drugs. And if they have, hopefully, they know where to go for help."

"I think this graduating class is better prepared than their predecessors to deal with the careers and continuing education," said Romulus High School Student advisor, Mike Birmingham.

"Their achievement tests scores have been up in all areas. This class is a turning point. This is the first time Romulus has been in the upper half of the national average. They're a different class. I can see it in their dress and their behavior. Most teachers agree," he said.

He said the pendulum has swung in the opposite direction of the roaring '70s "and the serious '80s are on." This class is better prepared to deal with social problems because of the continuing commitment by schools and community. "They even have an increased athletic achievement as noted by several successes in school sports," Birmingham said.

Frankie LaMarand, government teacher at Plymouth-Canton High School for the past 19 years, agrees that while students in the class of 1987 have been fun loving, the group as a whole have been noticeably more stable and conservative compared with classes in recent years.

Graduates have changing view of life

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

They've left behind the cramped desks, history books, term papers and dreaded exams. And, pep rallies, football games and need for a prom date are also now things of the past.

But lying ahead is the world, and the members of the class of 1987 are considering themselves ready. Well, almost.

Michelle Johnson, a 1987 graduate of Plymouth-Canton High School, said that she is prepared for life as a college student, but not necessarily as a participant in the "real world."

Johnson's view is representative of many of her classmates. Many graduates, she said, view college as a retreat from the actual "rat race" which has prompted repeated warnings from those already "out there."

But then again, this formalized education, whether it be at a university or a smaller, specialized business school, is considered an important step toward entering the job market. Johnson said that by skipping the additional step of more education, students would be doing themselves a disservice.

Wayne Memorial graduate Mike Boyagian agreed that it would be difficult for people to get very far without furthering their education.

"College is 'in' for most people I know. Everyone knows that a high school diploma just isn't enough anymore."

Boyagian said he plans to attend the Detroit College of Business to study business administration.

Another Wayne Memorial graduate this year is Rhonda Graham, who agreed with Boyagian, but added that there are also a lot of graduates who decide to enlist in the armed services.

"It's a way for people to get the on-the-job training that they need for the job market, and they can have their education paid for."

Graham plans to enter the Air Force after she completes two years at Eastern Michigan University. This way, she said, she will be eligible to enter as an officer, because she has had some formal education.

Now that their high school education is complete, most of the graduates interviewed said that they were satisfied with the quality of their educations, however, some had a few comments on how they think the educational system could be bettered at their schools.

English was most mentioned as the subject not emphasized enough in the required curriculum. Rich Cooper, a graduate of Plymouth Salem, agreed.

"I could've used more writing classes, but math and science courses were pushed more."

Business administration, computer science and engineering were most cited as the fields that graduates of today are leaning toward.

Teaching was also mentioned by several of the young people.

Just how well-briefed are the graduates of this year when it comes to current events?

John Glenn graduate Cindy Clark said that, for the most part, her classmates don't really concern themselves with current events.

"We're aware of things that are happening, since we've discussed them in our current events classes, but I think that we're pretty much removed from them, since we don't actually see these things when they happen."

Other graduates agreed with Clark's statement, especially in reference to the issue of AIDS.

Linda Timberman, who served as the senior class treasurer this year, said that her classmates feel that they are overexposed to the whole AIDS issue, because of the media.

"It's gotten so that everyone makes jokes about it, now. They all say that it could never happen to them."

Nuclear Arms is one issue that most of the graduates expressed concern about, although Clark said that she personally didn't think that a nuclear holocaust could ever really happen.

Both Canton and Salem graduates brought up censorship as one issue in which they became personally involved in during their senior year.

A controversy developed as a result of the school board attempt to ban certain books and movies which were determined not to be in the students' best interest.

Student protesters voiced their outrage at this, saying that they had the right, as young adults, to be exposed to certain materials. As president of the Plymouth Canton senior class this year, Michelle Johnson summed up the feelings of her classmates on that issue.

"You can't really judge something if you're not educated by it. We should be exposed to everything so that we'll be able to make an intelligent decision, based on that information."

One issue that graduates had varying opinions about was drinking and driving. While all graduates interviewed agreed that it is an important issue which needs to be emphasized, the way in which it is approached had some students a bit apprehensive.

"The drinking and driving campaign is not being approached in the right way. Instead of being educated, we are being talked down to. They won't accomplish much by telling teens not to drink. They must stress that their goal is to get people to stay off the road after doing it," said Rich Cooper.

Inkster High School graduate Eric Antonio believes that a crackdown on the part of the school administration has led to a decline in drug and alcohol abuse among some of his classmates.

"People are now more aware of the dangers of drug abuse."

'87 graduates concerned with futures

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

A nervous high school senior climbs the steps and crosses the long stage to receive the coveted diploma. Warm temperatures in crowded auditoriums add to the excitement of graduation day as another chapter in the book of life is closed for both graduates and their teachers.

Emotions are especially strong among teachers at commencement exercises. This is also a special day for them as they recall efforts of past years. It is their day as much as their students. Many feel the pride of accomplishment with their high school students, and most feel comfortable in a job well done. It wasn't easy. Things didn't always run smooth.

Social problems plagued schools from the inside-out, from family problems, drugs and violence. Yet according to Scott Beaman, National Honor Society advisor at Plymouth-Salem High School, political and social awareness increases with each graduating class.

"The 1987 graduate is genuinely concerned about their future. Young people want nuclear disarmament. They don't want to live in a world so close to the edge, it might tip over by mistake," he said.

He added that as prevalent as drug use is among high school students, seniors have

Berry delicious

Luscious strawberry crop means great tastes are soon to come

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

A drop of perspiration falls from the face of Linda St. Cyr of Belleville. The temperature outside pushes 90, and the mid-day sun beats down on her Martinville Road farm. What do the owners of 30 acres of ripening strawberries do next?

Linda and her husband Gary own and operate the Thornhollow Berry Farm just about one and one-half miles south of downtown Belleville.

Any day now, strawberry picking time will begin, and the St. Cyr family is already scrambling to prepare for the big season. Opening day for the pick-your-own operation varies from year to year. But the St. Cyrs must be ready, nevertheless.

"One of the toughest decisions we make is when to open. It's usually sometime around Memorial Day," 30-year-old Linda explained.

This year, the Thornhollow farm owners have added a brand new petting farm to the strawberry patches, complete with baby sheep, goats, rabbits, chickens and turkeys.

There is no time for cooking at this time of year, St. Cyr will admit, but that doesn't mean the family hasn't tasted a good share of taste-tempting strawberry preserves, pies and goodies. But before the berries are put into desserts, they must be properly grown, she said.

"Strawberries aren't just something you plant. They need lots of care and water. It's a high-tech business. But weather can make or break you in an hour. So far this year, the crop looks good, maybe our best," she said.

Hard-earned experience followed some short years of intensive training, and now the St. Cyrs are not only experts in their field, but they are among the largest strawberry growers in the county. Linda grows delicious berries and has learned to prepare them in a variety of recipes. Each year she discovers the secret to one more strawberry treat that will gain raving reviews in competitions.

And here's a few of her favorites.

STRAWBERRY BREAD

- 3 eggs
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup salad oil
- 1 tablespoon vanilla
- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup Quick Oats
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 cups crushed strawberries

Linda St. Cyr and daughter, Amanda, 5, display their favorite fruit.

Beat eggs and sugar. Add oil and vanilla. Mix in flour, oats, cinnamon, soda, salt and baking powder. Add strawberries and mix well. Pour into two greased and floured 4 x 8 loaf pans. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

CLASSIC STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

- 2 cups flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 5 tablespoons shortening
- 1 egg
- 2/3 cup milk
- Fresh strawberries
- Whipped cream

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease and flour two 8-inch, round cake pans. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in 5 tablespoons shortening. Beat 1 egg in a cup. Add 2/3 cup milk to the egg. Combine wet and dry mixtures. Pour into prepared pans. Place in oven for 20-30 minutes. Serve with fresh strawberries and top with whipped cream.

STRAWBERRY GLAZE PIE

- Glaze:
- 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 - 1 cup crushed strawberries
 - 2 teaspoons butter
 - 1/4 cup water
- Filling:
- 1 package 8-ounce cream cheese
 - 1/3 cup sugar
 - 1 teaspoon orange rind
 - 2 tablespoons orange juice
 - 1 quart strawberries
 - 2 tablespoons light cream
- Topping:
- 1/2 cup heavy whipped cream

Combine sugar and cornstarch. Stir in crushed strawberries and add 1/4 cup water. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Cook until clear and thickened. Add butter and let cool.

In mixer, beat cheese (room temperature), sugar, orange peel and juice. Beat 2 minutes. Add cream and beat until light and fluffy. Spread in a cool, cooked pie shell. Arrange strawberries over cream cheese mixture and pour chilled glaze over berries. Refrigerate for 3 hours and serve with whipped cream.

STRAWBERRY JAM FOR FREEZER

This is the easiest homemade jam ever made. Do not, however, double this recipe. It won't work.

- 2 cups crushed strawberries (1 quart)
- 4 cups sugar (1 3/4 pound)
- 1 box powdered fruit pectin, 1 3/4 ounces
- 3/4 cup water

Wash, scald and drain small jars with lids. An automatic dishwasher may be used to prepare the jars. Have strawberries at room temperature. Measure the crushed fruit carefully using a liquid measuring cup.

Measure the sugar with a dry measuring cup and thoroughly stir into berries. Let stand 10 minutes. Use a timer.

Mix 3/4 cup water and the powdered fruit pectin in a small saucepan. Bring to a full boil and then boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Immediately stir into fruit and continue stirring for 3 minutes. There will still be some sugar crystals.

Pour into prepared containers and cover with lids. Allow to stand at room temperature for 24 hours or until jam has set. Freeze. May be kept in the refrigerator for 3 weeks.

Duncan Hines to the rescue quick!

I hate cake mixes - I don't like muffin mixes, and somehow brownie mixes have always seemed like taking the adventure out of cooking to me. We won't even mention cookie mixes or those horrible refrigerated cookie doughs which even my dog won't eat. Most of these items taste remarkably like communion wafers, slightly sweetened to me.

But, here's my confession. With the schedule a full-time job forces me to keep, and my lack of time, I have fallen into the trap of using some of these convenience foods--and they really can be doctored up to be most presentable. Really!

Truthfully, the only thing I've found you can do with brownie mixes that makes them edible is use them for pie crusts, and the same goes for those terrible refrigerated cookie doughs. But, if you have the time, imagination and are in a pinch, some of this stuff can be made quite presentable. Take it from a woman who's been desperate more than once.

And, truthfully, Instant Genius Angel Food Cake has saved my reputation as a decent hostess many times.

INSTANT GENIUS ANGEL FOOD CAKE (A LAVISH DESSERT FOR EMERGENCIES)

- 1 package Duncan Hines Angel Food Cake Mix
- 2 to 3 tablespoons instant powdered coffee (not freeze dried)

Follow the instructions on the box of cake mix precisely, with this exception: Add the 2 to 3 tablespoons of instant coffee to the flour mixture before blending it in. (If you prefer a stronger flavor, you can add up to 4 tablespoons of coffee, but I like a more subtle flavor.) Continue to follow the instructions on the box for baking. When the cake is done, remove it from the oven, invert it, and remove pan when cool.

just desserts

FROSTING

- 8 tablespoons butter, at room temperature
- 2 1/2 - 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- Pinch salt
- 3 to 4 tablespoons instant powdered coffee
- 2 to 4 tablespoons milk or cream
- 1/2 cup sliced, toasted almonds

Cream the butter with the sugar and salt, adding the milk or cream as needed to reach the desired consistency. Add the instant coffee to taste. Beat the mixture until fluffy and spread over the top and sides of the cake, swirling with the back of a spoon. Garnish with toasted almonds.

VARIATION

This recipe can be varied to make a chocolate angel food cake. Simply substitute baking cocoa for the instant powdered coffee. Try Kaulua instead of the cream in the frosting, too.

ANOTHER QUICK BUT ELEGANT TREAT

Coffee ice cream (Baskin Robins is GREAT)
Fresh strawberries, cleaned and hulled and allowed to sit in sugar for 2-3 hours to make syrup.
Kahlua

This one's so simple, I'm almost (I said ALMOST) embarrassed. Scoop the coffee ice cream into very fancy, stemmed goblets. Cover with the strawberries and a generous amount of syrup, then drizzle with Kahlua. Your guests will love it.

Strawberry festival set

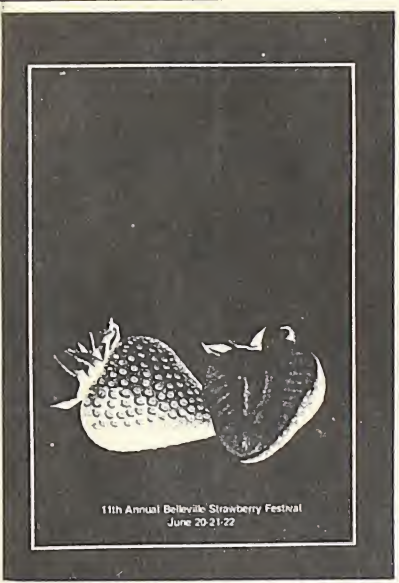

Hundreds of people have devised all kinds of uses for the delicious and ripe strawberry. Some have put them in cakes, pies, desserts and even main dishes.

But some residents of Belleville are putting the plumb berries in their annual celebration.

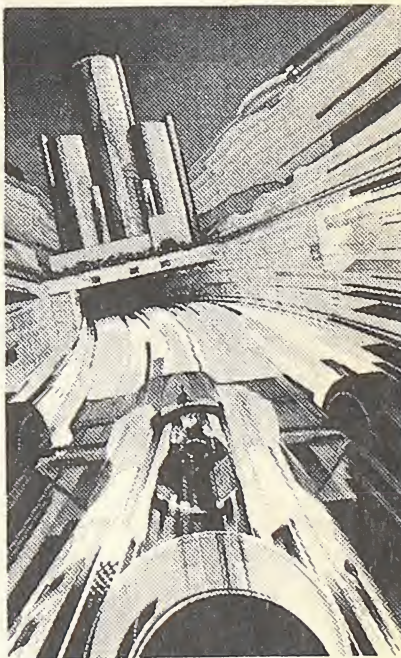

Inside of the paper today you will find a convenient guide to the 11th annual Belleville Strawberry Festival, an event that has become a national favorite. You'll find entertainment bits, facts and trivia and, best of all, more ways to turn the berries into tasty treats that will have all of your hunger visitors coming back for more and more.

The Belleville Strawberry Festival has been set for June 19, 20 and 21. For a complete schedule of events, see section D.

The Rev. Wayne T. Jackson

Ex-con finds salvation in ministry

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne T. Jackson, the pastor of the Faith Apostolic Temple in Inkster, found the righteous path to God only after a life of drugs, crime and six years in prison.

Twelve years ago, at the age of 21, Jackson was "born again" in the church he would become pastor of in 1985. The Pentecostal congregation now numbers almost 400 people, and Jackson has baptized more than 100 new members during the past year alone. Other accomplishments for the minister include the retirement of a 30-year mortgage, a $20,000 parking lot project and purchase of a new church van and office equipment.

"I've hurt so many people. Now God has given me the opportunity to help others, and I like the results. I enjoy being a servant," he said.

Jackson was born and raised in Inkster, the second youngest of nine children. His father, the Rev. Horace Jackson, died when Wayne was only 12. It was two years later, he said, that his life became one of crime and dealing with "the wrong crowd."

"I had the prayers of my mother. She always held on to her faith."

"I tried heroin when I was 16 years old. At 18, I was a full-fledged addict pushing dope on the streets of Inkster. This life of crime led me in and out of prison ever since. But I've never killed anyone or taken a life," he explained.

Jackson spent six years in the Milan Federal Penitentiary for crimes he would not detail. The crimes, he said, are memories he would prefer to forget.

"I come from a middle-class, black family. My problems weren't caused from them but from the availability of drugs on the street. I had the prayers of my mother. She always held on to her faith and didn't let go. Now she's very proud," Jackson said.

After attending a church meeting at Faith Apostolic and "hearing the gospel preached," Jackson said he was filled with the Holy Spirit. He was later baptized, and "I haven't turned around since."

Fellow church members not only accept the past life of their pastor but readily seek his counsel and advice for their own sons and daughters. According to the minister, his experiences and conversion are just another example of Christ's true forgiveness.

Seven years ago, Jackson married a woman he had met at the church. Today, the two are proud of their three children. Dominique, 6. Royal, 4. and Brandon, 3.

"If I had to sum up my life, I'd say I went from crime to Christ, from pusher to preacher and from dope to hope," Jackson said. "I'm living proof that people can change their life. If God can do it for me, he can do it for you."

Belleville, Salem pace All-Area swim

Record-setters form nucleus of elite team

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville and Plymouth Salem, relegated to the role of "bridesmaids" in their respective swim leagues, form the nucleus for the 1987 Associated Newspapers' All-Area swimming team.

Coach Bill Snider and the Tigers of Belleville finished second in the Wolverine "A" Conference to Monroe, while Salem was the runner-up to Livonia Stevenson in the Western Lakes Activities Conference.

From Belleville's 12-2-1 club the coaches drafted Dave Traskos, Mike Ackron, Martin Duda, Eric Snider, Raul Estrada, and Gordy Clearwood. Representing Salem are Dave Miller, Geoff Taylor, Phil Bocketti, John Kim, John Irvine, Don Harwood, Kevin Tunich, Ron Orris, Jeff Munson, and Jon Hobgood.

Also named to the team are Wayne Memorial's Jim Davis and Jerron Bradley; Westland John Glenn's Dan White, John Jensen, Mark Miller, Allen White, and Mac Simms. From the ranks of Livonia Churchill are Geoff Hutchinson, and Jeff Peterson, while Livonia Franklin's contribution is Bruce Madigan.

Salem and Belleville's state qualifying 200-medley relay teams lead off the honor roll of tankers. Miller, Taylor, Bocketti and Kim posted a 1:42.5 en route to a 14th place finish at the state championships staged in East Lansing at the facilities of Michigan State University.

Finishing a close second to Salem in medley relay is Belleville's foursome of Dave Traskos, Mike Ackron, Martin Duda and Eric Snider who have turned in a respectable 1:42.62 in the event. The Tiger medley team also qualified for the state finals where they finished 14th best in Michigan's Class A rankings.

The ANP selection for the 200-yard freestyle event includes the trio of John Irvine (Plymouth Salem), Jim Davis (Wayne Memorial) and Dan White (Westland John Glenn).

A two-year varsity veteran, Irvine registered a 1:51.17 in the 200-freestyle. He has also posted a 49.5 in the 100-yard freestyle and placed third in that event in the tough Western Lakes Conference. He claimed a fourth-place conference medal for the 200, and he was a member of the 400-yard freestyle relay team that finished 11th at state.

Davis is a 6-foot, 160-pound sophomore who has been a key figure in Coach Jim McPartlin's drive for a Wolverine 'A' Conference title. Named to the all-conference team for his freestyle efforts, Davis captured a conference gold medal in the 200-yard freestyle. He also chalked up a second place in the 500. Davis also won the 200 freestyle at the Wayne Invitational and broke the 10-year-old soph record in the 200 free. He stands as the high point-scorer for the Wayne team this year.

Dan White completed his junior year for the Rockets at John Glenn with impressive credentials. He carded a 1:54.15 for the 200-freestyle and has displayed the potential to become one of the top freestylers in Wayne's recent history.

Two Salem tankers - Don Harwood and Geoff Taylor - join Glenn's John Jensen as this year's All-Area selections for the 200-yard individual medley.

Jensen ended his high school swim career with a score of records. He shattered the Rockets'

Snider picked swim 'Coach of the Year'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

During his 20 years as a high school swim coach, Bill Snider has seen and developed a lot of talented athletes. Snider, who stepped into the role of head coach at Belleville High three years ago, has managed to preserve the Tigers' winning tradition.

Winning nine of 12 dual meets and tying one other, Belleville finished second only to state-ranked Monroe High in the Wolverine "A" Conference.

Snider, the Associated Newspapers' choice of high school "Coach of the Year", believes that in swimming, as in all other things in life, "there is no substitute for hard work."

Snider's enduring association with swimming and coaching began in Dearborn where he attended Fordson High School. He swam for the Tractors in the tough Border Cities Conference.

Upon graduation he attended Henry Ford Community College and Eastern Michigan University where he earned his teaching certificate and degree. He swam on the college level for the Detroit Institute of Technology.

In 1967, Snider joined Belleville Coach William Brandell's staff as an assistant coach and remained in that role until Coach Sam Vicchy resigned after an outstanding career. (Vicchy now coaches the girls' varsity swim team.)

"Sam was a difficult act to follow," Snider admits, "but the foundation, the winning tradition had been established. With the tremendous parental support and the quality of kids we get out for the team, the job is made a lot easier."

It could be better, however.

Unlike the Ann Arbor, Dearborn, Livonia and the Royal Oak schools, where swimming pools can be found in middle and even in some of the elementary schools, Belleville must rely on the high school's facility to train and prepare for the season.

"We have only one pool and when you consider that our kids have to compete against teams that have swimmers who have the opportunity to begin training in the elementary school level, we really have a lot of distance to make up. Because of this, I encourage our kids to swim year around, six days a week, morning and afternoon. It's the only way you can compete and get positive results."

Obviously, with a 34-4-1 won-lost-tied record over the span of the three years he has served as head coach, Snider's coaching philosophy is paying off.

Snider also stresses the "team as a family" concept.

"People believe that swimming is an individual thing," Snider said, "and, of course, when you're on the block and ready to dive into the water you are very much alone. Your thoughts are your own. You're racing the clock. You win or lose because of how you prepared."

"But," Snider continued, "I like to stress the 'teamness', that we are a family and, although there can be stress in family situations, basically it's important that everybody remembers we are like a family. Each must help the other; and each deserves our encouragement and help whenever and wherever possible. I have watched other teams where when the diving event is going on, they would walk out. Our team mem-

200-yard individual medley mark (1:58.8) and also owns the 100-yard butterfly record at 55.1 and has been clocked in a record-setting 4:48.0 for the 500-yard freestyle. Jensen also helped the Westlanders capture their first Wayne Invitational title as he personally accounted for a first place in the 500-freestyle and finished second in the 200 medley relay. He was a member of the Rockets' winning 200-medley relay team.

Jensen earned all-conference recognition when he finished first in the 500 at the Western Lakes Activities League. He was runner-up in the 200 IM. A state qualifier, Jensen placed eighth in the 200-yard individual medley.

Harwood has covered the 200-yard individual medley in 2:05.44, the second-best time in the area for the event, while Taylor has churned a 2:09.36. Completing three-years of a varsity experience, Taylor has a 1:05.6 in the breaststroke and a silver medal in that event for his performance at the conference. Taylor also reached the state finals for his part in the 200- medley relay, teaming with Dave Miller, Phil Bocketti and John Kim for the 14th place finish.

Belleville's Eric Snider and Martin Duda are the pacesetters in the area for the 50-yard freestyle. Snider, a sophomore, has been swimming since he was 6-years-old. He also happens to be Belleville Coach Bill Snider's son. (Snider was selected as the 1987 recipient of The Associated Newspapers Coach-of-the-Year honor). Eric has turned in a 22.83 for his efforts in the 50-yard freestyle. He placed first in the 50 and was second in the 100 freestyle (50.6) at the Wolverine 'A' Conference championships. Eric also made it to the state finals with the Tigers' medley relay team that wound up in 14th place.

Duda joined Snider on the medley relay team. A three-year varsity swimmer, Duda's premier stroke is the breaststroke, and he has been clocked in 56.6. He placed second in the event at the conference and was third in the Wolverine 'A' in the 50-yard freestyle (23.4).

Plymouth Canton's outstanding freestyler, Frank Wisniewski, who has a 23.55 in the 50, also was nominated for All-Area accolades for the event.

Four outstanding divers - Mark Miller (Westland John Glenn), Raul Estrada (Belleville), Gordy Clearwood (Belleville) and Kevin Tunich (Plymouth Salem) - continue the area tradition of producing topnotch performers.

Bocketti leads the three nominees in the 100-yard butterfly event. The 5 feet, 5 inch, 142-pound senior brings to the field two years of varsity swimming experience with him. A co-captain of the Salem team, Bocketti's best time for the 100-butterfly is 56.27. A versatile performer, Phil was called upon to swim in the freestyle as well as in the freestyle relay. The Rocks' freestyle relay team finished 11th at the state.

Jerron Bradley (Wayne Memorial) and Bryce Anderson (Plymouth Canton) are the other two All-Area candidates for the butterfly duties.

Plymouth Canton's Dean Roberts set the pace in the 100-yard freestyle. Roberts shattered the 50 seconds' barrier with an enviable 49.41 time. Churchill's Geoff Hutchinson who has turned in a 51.32, and Plymouth Salem's John Kim, who has a 52.26 for the event round out the nominees. Kim has earned four varsity stripes as a member of the Rocks' team. He swam on the medley relay team that finished second in the conference and qualified for state.

For the gruelling 500-yard freestyle, Ron Orris was the coaches' number one choice. Orris is a freshman, who stands 6 feet, 3 and is 175-pounds. In his rookie year, Ron has covered the distance in 4:52.90 and placed second in the Western Lakes Activities League, a league dominated by state-ranked Livonia Stevenson this year. He also came away from the conference with a third place ribbon for his performance in the 200-yard individual medley.

In the 100-yard backstroke, Dave Miller (Plymouth Salem), Allen White (Westland John Glenn) and Bruce Madigan (Livonia Franklin) are the candidates. Miller, a junior, is a tough competitor, whose 57.72 is the best time in the area for the 100-backstroke. White, who has a 59.03 for his efforts in the event, has been swimming at the varsity level for the past three years and wraps up an outstanding career for the Rockets.

Madigan also brought the curtains down on a fine swim career. A four-year veteran of varsity competition, Madigan's 59.11 places him among the top backstrokers in the area. He also swam on the Patriots' medley relay team.

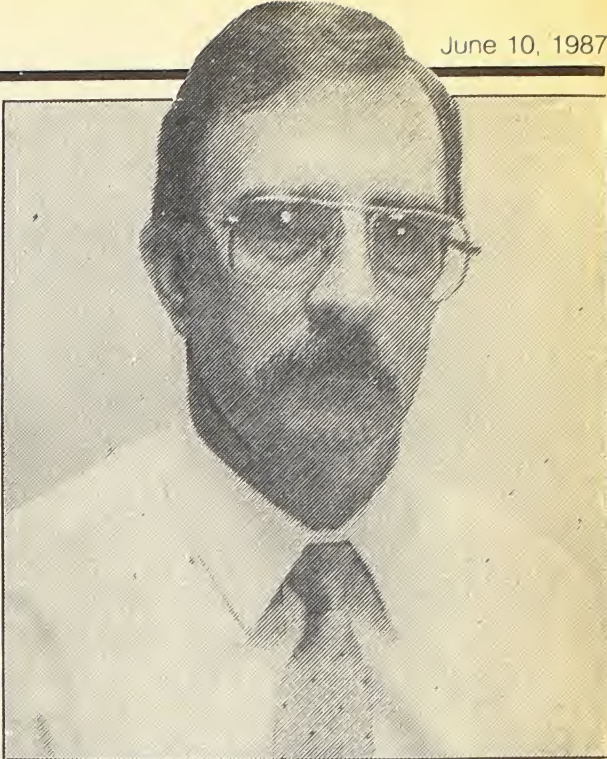

Mike Ackron, who won the Wolverine 'A' Conference titles in the 100-yard breaststroke, the 200-yard individual medley and also helped the Tigers capture the gold in the 200-yard medley relay, leads the three-man selection in the 100-yard breaststroke. The other two candidates are Jon Hobgood (Plymouth Salem) and Mac Sims (Westland John Glenn).

Ackron is a junior who comes from a long line of outstanding swimmers. He took the conference title in the 200 IM with a 2:01.56 and touched in first in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:01.56) while teaming with Snider, Duda, and Traskos for a victory in the medley relay.

Hobgood and Sims have been clocked in 1:05.92 and 1:06.19, respectively, for the second and third best times in the event for the area. Sims took a gold in the breaststroke at the Wayne Invitational and finished seventh in the 50-yard freestyle.

Salem and Belleville swimmers were drafted to make up the 400-yard freestyle relay teams. Salem's foursome of Ron Orris, Phil Bocketti, Don Harwood, and John Irvine qualified for state where the Rocks finished 11th. Their best time of the year is 3:19.02.

Belleville's freestyle relay lineup included Mike Ackron, Eric Snider, Martin Duda and Rob Bunker who were clocked in 3:22.41.

bers stay in the pool and cheer on their teammates."

Are the athletes of today better than those of the past?

Snider replied that "it is a difficult question to answer."

"I can't speak for the other sports and coaches, but in swimming I would have to say from my observations that the kids of today are about the same as their peers of a decade or even two ago. However, the faster times and performances are the results of better training and coaching techniques," Snider believes. "To get to where you want to go in life depends on the individual and how he or she wants to get there. The bottom line is, the best results are produced by hard work. There is no other way."

Last call for area's softball teams

Softball managers who are thinking about entering their clubs in the inaugural Johnnie A. Sims Memorial Invitational Tournament have until Friday, June 19 to sign in.

"We have had a lot of telephone inquiries about the tournament," said Ruth E. Williams, program supervisor for the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department. "And we do have a handful of commitments to compete in the tournament."

The men's "open" slow pitch softball invitational will be staged beginning Friday, June 26 and conclude Sunday, June 28. Recreation department officials are looking for 32 teams for the double elimination, American Softball Association-sanctioned tournament.

Sims was an outstanding prep athlete at Inkster High who went on to play and coach softball teams in the area. He was killed during an argument two months ago.

There is a $100 per team registration fee. Team rosters and entry fees must be submitted to the Parks and Recreation Department, 2025 Middlebelt Road, Inkster, MI. 48141 by Friday, June 19. Checks should be made payable to the "City of Inkster."

All players must be 18 years of age or older and each team will be permitted to carry 18 players. There will be a meeting at 6 p.m. Monday, June 22 at the Recreation Complex, 2121 Inkster Road.

Coaches and managers who need further information regarding the tournament may contact Williams at the Parks and Recreation offices, 728-7530.

Berries: Belleville business is blooming

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

Joanne Sayres

Joanne Sayres has spent nearly all the summers she can remember behind the very same counter, selling fruits and vegetables to customers who have become friends during the years.

As the owner of Sayres' Red Barn Market in Belleville, Sayres knows that vacationing during the summer months is a pipedream, but that doesn't seem to bother her. From May until October, people come from as far as 25 miles away to pick their own produce at her market.

The market, which is located on Ecorse Road, one mile west of Haggerty, has been open since 1960. It has expanded during the years from being a place where people could just buy dairy products and sheep feed to offering 19 different crops, including fresh sweet corn and strawberries.

Sayres said that the Sayres' farm has been in her husband Jim's family for more than 100 years, after being started by Jim's great-grandfather.

Sayres and her husband have equally important roles in the business. Jim raises all of the produce, while she manages the sales end of the business; however, Sayres gave her husband most of the credit.

"Without Jim, there wouldn't be a farm, therefore I wouldn't be doing what I'm doing."

Sayres said that one of the biggest advantages that her market has over her competitors is the freshness of the produce in comparison to that of produce found in supermarkets.

"...Supermarkets can't compete with us, as far as sweet corn or strawberries go..."

One exclusive advantage that Sayres said her market has over the competition is that customers can pick their own produce, which she feels is more satisfying than just going out to the supermarket to get whatever is in the package.

"Picking your own produce is work, but the rewards result in more flavorful fruits and vegetables, along with it being a reasonable and enjoyable family outing in the country."

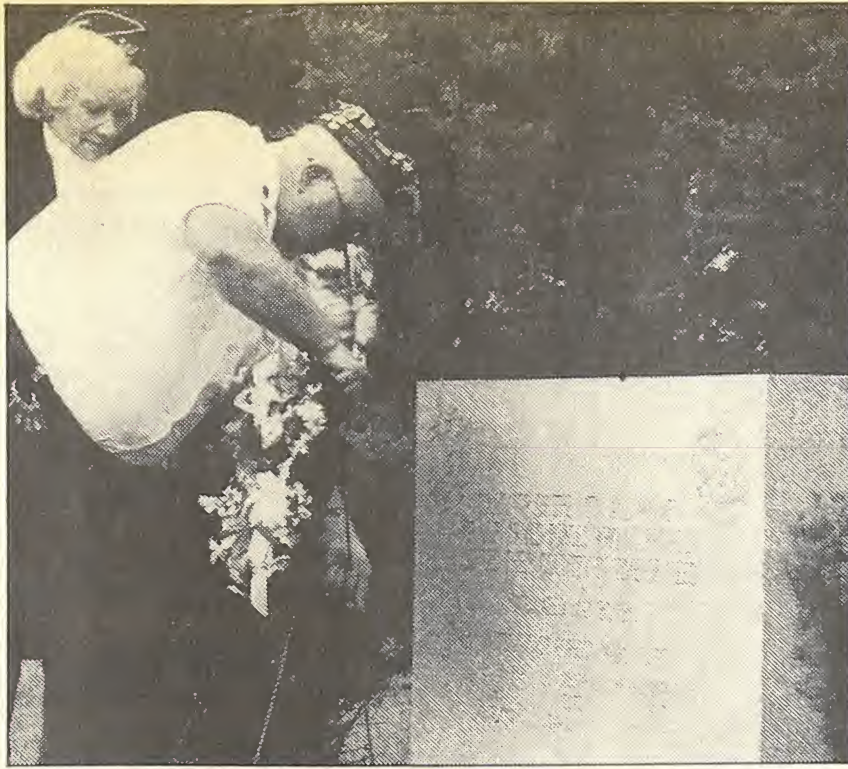

With the Belleville Strawberry Festival only three weeks away, Sayres said that her workers are preparing for the annual June rush. This year, however, Sayres said she is expecting strawberry season to peak earlier than usual, because of the unusually warm weather back in April and again last month.

Normally, Sayres said, strawberry season runs from about June 10 through June 15, so she expects the fruit to be at its best ahead of the festival this year. She suggested that people who are really in the mood for some fresh strawberries shouldn't wait until the end of June to get out and pick them.

Sayres offered some tips on how to get the most enjoyment out of fresh strawberries. The good strawberries are the ones that are red all the way through, with no green stripes through them. Sayres said that it is important to note that strawberries do not ripen after they are picked, so the redder they are, the sweeter.

Ever wonder how to avoid ending up with soggy strawberries after cleaning them? Sayres suggests the strawberries be picked with the cap left on. The cap is the green leaves around the top of the berry. By leaving the cap on the berry, less juice is lost in rinsing and water can't get into the berry.

By the time strawberry season ends, vegetable season should be in full swing, especially once the end of July comes around. Then it's fresh corn season, and with all of the corn roasts going on in August, Sayres said that she certainly has her work cut out for her.

Honored heroes

The Cadillac Memorial Gardens on Ford Road in Westland was the site for a special Memorial Day tribute last month. An annual event, the ceremony was designed to honor the war heroes buried in the local cemetery and all wartime heroes in general. Dozens of participants helped make the ceremony a memorable one for both spectators and officials at the cemetery.
